Commercial Lead at Brilliant Dyes

Help build the commercial engine behind the next generation of natural colour

Brilliant Dyes Ltd || London, UK || Commercial Lead

About Brilliant Dyes

Brilliant Dyes is an Imperial College London spin-out commercialising algae-derived natural dyes for the fashion and food industries. We cultivate colour-rich microalgae and extract high-quality, biodegradable pigment on our biorefinery platform, producing vibrant colour with a fraction of the water, energy, and carbon emissions of conventional dyeing. Having moved from lab scale to a commissioned pre-pilot rig, we are now building the commercial side of the business as we scale.

The Role

We are looking for a Commercial Lead to own and grow the commercial side of Brilliant Dyes. Working closely with the founding team, you will drive our growth strategy, build our market presence, and develop the relationships that take our technology from an exciting innovation to a commercial success. This is a broad, hands-on role for someone who wants to shape the direction of a growing deep-tech startup.

What You'll Do

- Own and develop our commercial and growth strategy as we scale.
- Lead marketing and brand development, raising our profile across the textile, cosmetics and food sectors.
- Develop our showcase and event presence, representing Brilliant Dyes to clients, partners, and industry.
- Build and manage investor and VC relationships, supporting fundraising and pitching activity.
- Identify and develop new commercial opportunities, partnerships and routes to market.
- Act as a key external face of the company across client-facing and industry relations.

About You

You are a commercially minded, strategic thinker who is as comfortable building a brand as closing a relationship. You thrive in an early-stage environment, adaptable across technical and commercial work, and excited by the challenge of taking a genuinely novel technology to market.

- A postgraduate background, ideally an MBA.
- A strong track record in marketing, business development, and commercial strategy.
- Experience within startups, or the food or cosmetics sectors, is highly desirable.
- Confident and credible in front of clients, partners and investors.
- Willing and able to travel, both within the UK and internationally.
- An awareness of the commercial and regulatory considerations of bringing products to market is a bonus.

What We Offer

- The chance to help scale a sustainable, award-winning deep-tech startup.
- A central, strategic role with real ownership and influence over the company's direction.
- The opportunity to pitch and represent Brilliant Dyes to clients and investors.
- UK and international travel, and a front-row seat as the company grows.
- A competitive salary, commensurate with experience.
- Full-time or Part-time working dependant on experience.
- Standard UK employer benefits: Insurance, Pension schemes, and annual leave.

Role Details

Location	London, UK
Contract	Full-time or Part-time
Travel	Regular UK travel, with occasional international travel
Eligibility	Must have the right to work in the UK
Deadline	30th November 2026, applications are reviewed on a rolling basis, and we may close the role early if we find the right candidate, so we encourage early applications.
Start date	Flexible

How to Apply

To apply, please send your CV and a cover/motivation letter explaining why you'd be a strong fit for the role to hello@brilliantdyes.com. We review applications as they arrive, so early applications are encouraged.